What Can We Do Now to Help Family and Our Youth?

- Change our way of thinking and doing business
- Admit when we made a mistake in raising our kids
- Bring Ma'am and Sir back into their vocabulary
- As soon as they can speak, start working on how to say and spell their full name and their phone number.
- Schedule worship time for the entire family. Faith is a solid bonding and connecting experience.
- Teach them tolerance. This generation is seeing more than ever before. They will learn by your example on how to relate to what they may not understand.
- Teach them the golden rule "Do unto others as you would have others do unto you". Don't make it a habit of speaking ill of others beliefs or convictions, respect for others is first learned from you.
- Become your community leader, every neighborhood has someone they look up to
- Plan a clean up day in your neighborhood.
- Plan a neighborhood cookout. For as little as a $5.00 contribution per person, you will all receive an invaluable means of getting to know those who live in your area.
- Teach respect for the police and other law enforcement.

Educate. Encourage. Reach Back.

- We must stay in School to get ahead
- Not everyone can afford to go to college. Everyone can afford to be educated. Teach your children the importance of graduating high school.
- Encourage our youth not to have sex until they are married.
- Teach your children proper table manners and hygiene. Remind them of the importance of not sharing plates and drinks with friends or family members.
- Teach the importance of a drug free life. Do not allow your home to ever be a point of exposure for drugs to your children.
- Educate your children. Teach them the difference between a 'job' and a 'career.' Learn about your childrens hopes and dreams for the future.
- Between 18-22, youth with a GED can start a career in public safety. Talk to your children about their options
- Make your home one where they can speak freely. Always remind them of the importance of eye contact
- Set the standards in your home. If you don't want your children to curse, stop speaking like a sailor
- Teach them the value of good credit and the importance of saving. They may be young but it is never to early to learn how to prepare for the future
